CHAMPION EXPOSITION SERVICES WINS “BEST DESIGN” IN IAEE'S 2008 ART OF THE SHOW COMPETITION

MIDDLEBORO, Mass., December 9, 2008 – Champion Exposition Services (“Champion”), a leading provider of comprehensive event solutions and exposition services, today announced the company has received the International Association of Exhibitions and Events (IAEE) Art of the Show award for “Best Design” in the large event category (over 150,000 net square feet). The award is recognition of Champion’s work for the 2007 Pacific Coast Builder’s Conference (PCBC) at the Moscone Center in San Francisco.

“It’s no surprise to anyone involved with PCBC that IAEE has honored Champion for their work with us. Champion’s innovative, creative and unmatched service and support transformed our vision for PCBC 2007 into a reality,” said Linda Baysari, senior vice president/meetings & convention, PCBC.

Champion continued their partnership with PCBC last June at the 2008 conference at the Moscone Center. Champion will also serve as the official general service contractor for PCBC 2009, which is scheduled for June 17-19, 2009.

“We are truly honored to be recognized for our work with PCBC,” said Chris Young, vice president of creative services, Champion Exposition Services. “This award reflects the dedication and creativity that Champion delivers for all our customers. We look forward to continuing our fruitful relationship with our partners at PCBC and to providing them the award-winning creative design and client service that they have come to expect from Champion.”

The IAEE Art of the Show awards will be presented at the Opening General Session and Awards Ceremony during Expo! Expo! IAEE's Annual Meeting & Exhibition to be held December 9-11, 2008 in Miami Beach, Florida.
